IMPRESSIONS OF WRITER AS A LAYMAN AFTER ATTENDING BROWN & CURRY MEETING

Brown and Curry occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church last Monday evening and we were instructed to attend that meeting and tell the readers the impressions we received. Not from the standpoint of the press agent, but our own. So here goes.

When we were mere kids we dreaded Sunday. Dreaded it like all get out, even to the point of a licking, probably, before we got through with it. But in the end we went to church. We were compelled, for no reason under the sun, to be thoroughly scrubbed, even had to have our hair combed and shoes greased, and then go to church and Sunday school, and if we so much as moved we got shook by ma or pa. The only chance we had to exercise was when the preacher prayed (and he was usually as long at this as he was at his sermon), then we could make faces at the other kids and hold up two fingers (that was, let's go swimming). The sermons then were about as interesting to us kids as tending the baby was when the other fellows were going fishing or we had the carpets to beat.

Mr. Curry sang a song last Monday evening that was about "Old-Fashioned Religion." Guess we must have lived as a kid when that was in vogue.

Then there is another time in our life that leads up to what we want to say. After years, not so very long ago either, there was a church that we liked to attend and a preacher we liked to have preach. The seats or pews were built for comfort, and the sermons about as interesting as reading the dictionary; but we could go to sleep and never mind it.

When Mr. Brown started to talk we were all ears, for we had a mission and we wanted to catch all of the big seven-syllable words that we expected him to utter, for we are no different from anybody else when big words are uttered by big men. Don't know what they mean, but just look wise and afterwards go up and say how much they enjoyed the talk when they would rather say, "Why didn't you talk so we could understand?" Anyway, that's what we expected, but we were disappointed, for he talked talk that we rather hear, talk that we could understand.

Mr. Brown didn't come to the Methodist church to preach; he came to talk. He said he did, and he did. His text was, "King David's Rathens," and incidentally everybody else's rathens, and he just came right out and told his audience what was what in this rather business. When we were kids we went to church, but we would of rather gone fishing. We would of rather went to sleep when the other fellow was preaching, and we did, just as we do now; we rather go to lodge or club than go to church.

He has a way about him that is far from serious. He can tell a story and bring out the point. He had us all laughing. He laughs himself and shows his teeth, not the Roosevelt way, but in a way that you know he is laughing, and it makes you feel as though you could almost pat your kid on the back and tell him how good a boy he was after he had gone out in your newly-made garden and pulled up the planted seeds. And some kids in the front seats got to laughing so hard they forgot they were in the church and he had to bring them down a peg or two and he did it in a way that they didn't mind.

He is going to have a meeting for children next Saturday afternoon at the tabernacle and we would rather sneak in if we could and every kid should hear Mr. Brown.

We gathered from his talk that he was a Southerner, for he said, "You all," and after we had been introduced to him and he told us he was at one time a "devil" in a printing office we didn't care where he came from, South, North, East or West, we realize why

PLAYING BIG TIME ON THE DOG SHOW CIRCUIT

Irving H. Oliver and W. C. Anderson are working the big time on the Dog Show circuit—one show two days long to capacity houses.

They are doing a real road-show stunt and make their jumps in a private car. It is one of those cars that was constructed and assembled about the year 1910 and called an air-cooled something (Franklin), with regular tires and sufficient horse power to do the distance from Tropic to Pasadena in seventeen minutes.

Oliver & Anderson (not a fictitious firm name) packed their scenery, which consisted of an Airedale terrier called Queen and a cocker spaniel called Kanakah Girl, after a more dark than fair maiden of Samoa or Jamaica, and broke over the hills for Pasadena last Friday for the two days' and two nights' show given for the amusement of the men who wear silk hats that don't shine and the ladies who hold their specs in their hands and say, "Aw, isn't it a sublime dear? I do worship Airedales; they are so beautiful, and their coats are of so fine a texture." And then turn to the cocker spaniels and yawn.

Mr. Oliver's Queen slipped away from the gaze of the other queens long enough to win first prize in the senior puppy class and to respond to a couple of encores after winning a sterling cup that was presented by the Strand Cafe of Venice for the best Airedale owned by a member of the Airedale Club of Southern California.

Mr. Anderson's Kanakah Girl won first in the American bred cocker spaniel class and collected a medal that was long past due. Mr. Anderson says that a man named Sterling must have donated it because it is the name stamped on it.

The next booking of the Tropic Dog Road Show is Los Angeles, and the company will make the trip in the same air-cooled (Franklin) providing, Anderson says, "If those people who wear walking sticks in the morning and suede gloves when they pick daisies promise not to worry him with specs on handles and remarks about 'exquisite creatures.'" He says further: "I can't get 'em. They have too much money and it causes an impediment in their speech. I'd rather give them a dog than try to interpret a language that never was written in books. They walk around among the benches just like the living models in a Fashion Show. Swell, they have it on the dogs and one couldn't tell 'em from the displays of the latest imported gowns, and they didn't throw confetti or paper ribbons. Just walked around stiff-like and bowed and stared at the dogs."

"I inquired about some of them and learned that they made their money in the funniest ways. One got rich sharpening shoe pegs on both ends and selling them for oats; another got rich by inventing a noiseless bell for railroad crossings. Now, all they do is dress up like a new cafeteria and follow dog shows."

PARENT-TEACHERS TO MEET ON FRIDAY AFT.

On Friday afternoon at the Tropic school Mrs. Westbrook, State Chairman of the Emergency Committee, will address the Parent-Teachers' Association of Tropic. It is hoped that a large number will turn out for this meeting, as the talk will be both interesting and instructive.

he had entered the ministry. And he has made good.

The way in which he pronounces every word and the way every sentence goes in demonstrates his ability. And the way he can tell a story makes a hit with us.

TROPICO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HAS A MEMBERSHIP OF NEARLY A HUNDRED

From the response by the business men of Tropic, and the citizens generally, to the call for a Chamber of Commerce for our fast-growing city of homes and good business opportunity, it does not take the foresight of a prophet to see that we are approaching an epoch-making period in the history of the "City Beautiful."

Without exception, we have the finest location and environments for homes for the great middle class, the bone and sinew of our nation, to be found in Southern California, which means the best this old world affords up to date. With some landscape gardening and some skillful engineering to the East the millionaire may find a location equal to his heart's desire.

Business industries of the higher grade, suitable to a city of homes, will find congenial surroundings and a fine opportunity in Tropic. Close enough to the city, with shipping facilities of the very best, and in a rapidly developing community, no wonder far-reaching capital is seeking us out.

What, with our industrial opportunity, our perfect climate, our aggressive citizenship and our strategic location, may not be expected of us in the near future. The climate and location no man can take from us. The industrial opportunity in part is beyond the possibility of injury, but only by the cultivation of the better qualities of aggressive citizenship shall we be able to cause capital and homeseekers to "Look us over and not overlook us." This the Chamber of Commerce will do by encouraging every laudable enterprise. We may have within two months 200 members of the Chamber of Commerce, and within five years 12,000 population. Let us all, with pride commendable and loyalty worthy of so good a cause boost Tropic and its Chamber of Commerce.

CITIZEN.

Simon Berman played host to his many friends and K. P. boys last Monday evening. The occasion was a house warming at his new home on East Palmer avenue. Mr. Berman proved himself up to the minute and everyone says "This is the life."

CLARENCE CHANDELER MEETS DEATH BY STRAY BULLET

The coroner's inquest held in the parlors of the Seavern, Letton, Frey-Co. last Saturday, over the death of Clarence Chandler, son of H. E. Chandler, 130 W. Acacia avenue, rendered a verdict of death, resulting from the accidental discharge of a weapon from the hands of some person unknown.

Mr. Chandler was employed by a moving picture company, and on last Friday he, with several others, were rehearsing for a film when the accident occurred. Owing to the fact that the camera was not working and the act such that confusion reigned, just who or how the shooting occurred will probably never be known. Impressions from some of his companions are that the fatal shot came from his own gun but this is not conclusive.

The accident occurred about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon and the body was conveyed to the undertaking parlors and the sorrowing family notified.

The deceased was thirty years of age and resided with his wife and three little children in Edendale.

Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at the Methodist church. Dr. R. T. Smith officiating. Interment was made at Forest Lawn cemetery.

G.A.R. AND W.R.C. HOLD PATRIOTIC MEETING LAST FRIDAY

N. P. Banks Post and Corps entertained patriotically at the G. A. R. Hall last Friday at any all-day session. The day was commemorating the anniversaries of three presidents—Washington, Lincoln and McKinley.

W. C. Gibbons and Mrs. Alma Dutton talked upon the life of Washington; Samuel Parker and Miss Delia Hapgood addressed those present to the memory of Lincoln; while W. J. Hibbert and Mrs. Flora Pixley eulogized the martyred McKinley. The musical program consisted of patriotic songs and solos by Mrs. W. H. Crawford, Mrs. A. J. Van Wie and R. Dana Goss.

MAGNOLIA AVE. SCHOOL ORGANIZES BRANCH OF PARENT TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

Last Monday afternoon at the Magnolia Avenue School the ladies of the neighborhood gathered and, under the able direction of Mrs. Noble, state organizer, organized the Magnolia avenue branch of the Tropic Parent-Teachers' Association. The following officers were elected: President, Mrs. C. K. Lake; vice-presidents, Mrs. L. C. Haynes, L. J. Meager, Mr. Grott, A. J. Van Wie; recording secretary, Mrs. H. B. Goodrich; corresponding secretary, Mrs. L. J. Meager; treasurer, Mrs. H. L. Moody; historian, Miss Mary Saxon.

Mrs. Noble spoke upon the good work accomplished by the parent teachers in Southern California and outlined its aims and purposes in a way that stilled in the hearts of her hearers a desire to accomplish things here in Tropic and especially at the Magnolia Avenue School.

The association is worthy of consideration and help from every parent for its work is covering a field that makes every means possible in the co-operation of teacher and parent in the moulding of the lives and future greatness of the child. It covers a path of duty far from the jurisdiction of the school board and relieves the mental strain where circumstances make compulsory education a burden.

Another point that will have to be met by the Parent-Teachers' Association is that laid bare by the abolition of the poll tax. Thousands of dollars is the school's loss, and a part of this must be met by the parents and teachers, and no better way could be found.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES MEET IN REGULAR WEEKLY SESSION

Minutes of last meeting read and approved. All members present. There being no written communications the officers' reports were in order.

The city clerk asked for and was granted a leave of absence for ten days or two weeks.

The city attorney reported progress on Acacia avenue proceedings. He reported that the Richardson estate had not as yet put up their share for Glendale avenue improvements, but that they would soon.

The health officer urged that the Board take some action in regard to the disposal of garbage. He was instructed to take up the matter with some garbage reduction company with a view of making some arrangements.

A petition signed by property owners on the west side of Central avenue from Park to Paloma asking that Acacia trees be designated as the trees to be planted along the parking.

The following bills were ordered paid:
Chas. Hunter ..... $ 2.75
Tropic Sentinel ..... 5.85
W. A. Chapman ..... 1.97
W. A. Chapman ..... 2.19
J. J. Burke ..... 5.55
Tropic Sentinel ..... 36.39
Tropic Sentinel ..... 16.80

In regards to abandoning the work on Cypress and Boynton streets the petition turned in carried the majority of property owners, but failed to comply with conditions. Upon motion the work was ordered continued and all bids rejected but McCombs and Burke. Same being accepted, they were awarded the contract.

March—In like a lion out like a lamb. We sure couldn't call our weather for the past few days a lamb. Remember last year we had some scorches in March and March this year is still young.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF JAMES RICH DECEASED

The olographic Will of the late Mayor of Tropic, is on file in the office the Probate Clerk of the Superior Court of this County.

It is entirely in the hand writing of Mr. Rich and its characteristic of his tender regard for his surviving wife and children and prudent foresight, and is as follows:

In the name of God, Amen
I James Rich, being of sound mind and of disposing mind and memory and natural discretion realizing the uncertainties of this frail and transitory life and the certainty of death, make this my last will and testament.

First, I desire all my just and legal debts to be paid including my last doctor's bill and funeral expenses. Also a small monument, not costing more than forty dollars.

Secondly, I will and bequeath all my property both personal and real to Mary J. Rich my beloved wife, to be used as follows:

Rearing, educating and maintaining the children which are minors at my death and supporting herself in the easiest and most enjoyable manner, refraining from all onerous and laborious work, thus making life easy and passible, no difference or favoritism to be made with or to the children if they are all equally kind and considerate of their mother and live just and correct lives. No aid to be given to any one of the children who may get into trouble by reckless and wrong or immoral conduct except by the unanimous consent of all the other children who are of age. Property may be sold and the money invested at any time when a majority of the children who are over eighteen years of age think it best. And when sales are made and investments are to be made the children must be consulted. And should Mary J. Rich ever marry it is positively declared by me that the man whom she marries is to have no control, ownership or co-ownership in the property which I bequeath to the said Mary J. Rich, my wife, and her death, said property of every kind is to be equally divided among my eight children or their heirs.

This will is not to be probated unless some disagreement should arise between my wife, Mary J. Rich and the children in regard to the use and management of said property.

I name and constitute as executors of this, my will,
J. M. Rich, W. C. Seal and L. C. Haynes, my son and my son in laws.

In witness whereof I hereunto sign my name this December 18, 1908.

James Rich
We saw James Rich sign his name to this, his Will and Testament and he called us as witnesses to his signature he being our father and we being his daughters and son.

JUSTICE

By William C. Inderson

The following is from President Wilson's speech at Indianapolis: "I am not one of those who doubt either the industry or the learning, or the integrity of the courts of the United States, but I do know that they have a very antiquated way of doing business. I do know that the United States in its judicial procedure is many decades behind every other civilized government in the world. And I say that, because the speediness of justice, the inexpensiveness of justice, the ready access to justice, is the greater part of justice itself.

"If you have to be rich to get justice, because of the cost of the very process itself, then there is no justice at all."

The importance of the President's statements is especially impressive because of his integrity and sincerity.

Our President is a man who has a thorough knowledge of the workings of our courts. He knows of the influences that are exercised to destroy justice, and there isn't any doubt about his feelings in the matter. He is with and for the people—the ninety-two per cent—and he said, in a recent interview, that in a short time he would have something to say to us.

What the President will say is a matter for speculation, but we can be sure that it will concern our welfare. In all probability he will ask us to come out of our trance and help to do things for ourselves.

We might hope that he will offer some substantial suggestions concerning justice, how to get it, and how to depend upon getting it.

There is one thing certain, we will never get justice while politics permeate our courts, nor while fraternal orders influence them, nor while they can be dictated to by big business and controlled by purchase.

Religion often exercises a sinister influence in our courts, and friendships nearly always.

The best way to be sure of justice is to avoid courts, and then, one doesn't always get justice. To arbitrate and compromise doesn't always mean justice, but it eliminates too much in justice.

In some countries, magistrates are appointed for life and in that way they are removed from all influence, political and other kinds. It doesn't do any good to live next door to life judges. It doesn't do any good to follow one of them home from church. It doesn't do any good to peek through a little hole in the door and give one the password. Pull doesn't pull when weak-kneed judges are not elected or appointed.

If our judges were qualified men and were appointed for life they wouldn't have to display a kindly attitude toward rich law-breakers, and those without political power and other kinds of power would get justice. Our present system is no system for a poor man to go against. Many instances prove it. Here is one instance of what a court did:

In Chicago, not a hundred years ago, a man was elected to the council, and a streetcar corporation did not approve of him. The election judges were bribed to "correct" the returns. The matter was taken to the courts and the bribers confessed, but the presiding judge acquitted them because he "thought" there wasn't any criminal intent.

There isn't any need to comment further.

It takes a heap of courage to tell the American people of the questionable systems under which they live, but President Wilson is one president that has the courage. He is matching the peoples' faith in himself against corrupt interests, both political and commercial. He knows that the people are more powerful than those they put in office.

If the people would act they would get action, but while they submit they will have to endure.

Note:

Since the above was written, a prominent writer has this to say: "It is party loyalty that debauches courts and makes judges blind and stupid."

MARKETING WORLD'S GREATEST PROBLEM

WE ARE LONG ON PRODUCTION, SHORT ON DISTRIBUTION.

By Peter Radford
Lecturer National Farmers' Union.

The economic distribution of farm products is today the world's greatest problem and the war, while it has brought its hardships, has clearly emphasized the importance of distribution as a factor in American agriculture and promises to give the farmers the co-operation of the government and the business men the solution of their marketing problem.

This result will, in a measure, compensate us for our war losses, for the business interests and government have been in the main assisting almost exclusively on the production side of agriculture. While the department of agriculture has been dumping tons of literature on the farmer telling him how to produce, the farmer has been dumping tons of products in the nation's garbage can for want of a market.

The World Will Never Starve.

At no time since Adam and Eve were driven from the Garden of Eden have the inhabitants of this world suffered from lack of production, but some people have gone hungry from the day of creation to this good hour for the lack of proper distribution. Slight variations in production have forced a change in diet and one locality has felt the pinch of want, while another surfeited, but the world as a whole has ever been a land of plenty.

We now have less than one-tenth of the tillable land of the earth's surface under cultivation, and we not only have this surplus area to draw on but it is safe to estimate that in case of dire necessity one-half the earth's population could at the present time knock their living out of the trees of the forest, gather it from wild vines and draw it from streams. No one should become alarmed; the world will never starve.

The consumer has always feared that the producer would not supply him and his fright has found expression on the statute books of our states, and nations and the farmer has been urged to produce recklessly and without reference to a market, and regardless of the demands of the consumer.

Back to the Soil.

The city people have been urging each other to move back to the farm, but very few of them have moved. We welcome our city cousins back to the soil and this earth's surface contains 16,992,160,000 idle acres of tillable land where they can make a living by tilling the earth with a forked stick, but we do not need them so far as increasing production is concerned; we now have all the producers we can use. The city man has very erroneous ideas of agricultural conditions. The commonly accepted theory that we are short on production is all wrong. Our annual increase in production far exceeds that of our increase in population.

The World as a Farm.

Taking the world as one big farm, we find two billion acres of land in cultivation. Of this amount there is approximately 750,000,000 acres on the western and 1,260,000,000 acres on the eastern hemisphere, in cultivation. This estimate, of course, does not include grazing lands, forests, etc., where large quantities of meat are produced.

The world's annual crop approximates fifteen billion bushels of cereals, thirteen billion pounds of fibre and sixty-five million tons of meat.

The average annual world crop for the past five years, compared with the previous five years, is as follows:

Crops—	Past Half Decade.	Previous Half Decade.
Corn (Bu.)	3,934,174,000	3,403,655,000
Wheat (Bu.)	3,522,769,000	3,257,526,000
Oats (Bu.)	4,120,017,000	3,508,315,000
Cotton (Bales)	19,863,800	17,541,200

The world shows an average increase in cereal production of 13 per cent during the past decade, compared with the previous five years, while the world's population shows an increase of only three per cent.

The gain in production far exceeds that of our increase in population, and it is safe to estimate that the farmer can easily increase production 25 per cent if a remunerative market can be found for the products. In textile fibres the world shows an increase during the past half decade in production of 15 per cent against a population increase of three per cent.

The people of this nation should address themselves to the subject of improved facilities for distribution.

Over-production and crop mortgage force the farmers into ruinous competition with each other. The remedy lies in organization and in co-operation in marketing.

Mrs. J. H. Seaman entertained with a luncheon last Wednesday in honor of Mrs. Jessie H. Shreve, a recent bride of San Diego, who with her husband were on their way home after a delightful honeymoon.

Nelson C. Burch will leave for Jefferson City, Mo. the first of next week in answer to word received that a brother is very seriously ill.

Attention is called to the advertisement in this issue of George H. King Rubber Co. of Los Angeles, who are dealers in standard makes of tires at prices that bear consideration when you are in the market. Another thing George H. King is one of our own valley residents.

Gordon Pickett and family will be among the many tourists who are due to reach Los Angeles this week from the East. Mrs. Pickett is a niece of N. C. Burch. The family will make their future home in Pasadena.

Mrs. Christine E. Caspary, wife of E. A. Caspary, died at the family home, 311 Gardena avenue, at 7:30 a. m., last Thursday, at the age of 41 years. Mrs. Caspary was a native of Norway. Funeral services were held at the home on Saturday afternoon. Interment at Forest Lawn cemetery, under direction of the Pulliam undertakers.

Chas. Peabody and wife were dinner guests of N. C. Burch last Tuesday. Mr. Peabody is an accountant in the Santa Fe offices at Kansas City. This is the second trip to Southern Cal. for Mr. and Mrs. Peabody and each time the West has appealed to them strongly.

Monday evening the city police picked up a young lad who was wandering around carrying a rifle. The young man gave his name as Carl Teschan and residence as Glassel Park. He stated that he had had trouble with his mother, had taken his rifle and started out presumably to conquer the world, but unfortunately his career was brief. After being questioned closely he was sent home minus his arsenal, no doubt a wiser boy.

Little Miss Observes Birthday

Little Maeryne Seal made her debut in Tropico juvenile society last Monday afternoon when she entertained nine of her little friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Seal, on East Tropico avenue, commemorating her fourth birthday. The little folk gathered at 2:30 and until 5 the house rang with their healthy mirth. During the afternoon refreshments were served by Maeryne's mother, assisted by Mrs. G. R. Allen, Mrs. George Lauxe, Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Miller. The little folk who were so fortunate are: Marguerite and Helen Allen, Audrey and Langdon Haynes, George Ward, Rebecca Tauxe, Louise Kopp and Spencer Van Wie.

YOUTH OF STATE NOT PREPARED FOR WORK BY THE SCHOOLS

One-fourth of the children entering the common schools of the state leave at the end of the sixth grade, less than one-half of them complete the eighth grade, and less than 15 per cent complete the high school.

These facts are set forth in the annual report of the Commissioner of Industrial and Vocational Education, which further states that these young people, who are not able to secure a university course and who are employed in the common occupations of life, have received very little training in the public schools that is directly applicable to the needs of their several callings.

If the vocational education bill, introduced in the Senate by Strobridge, goes through it will do much to change this condition. The purpose of the act, as expressed in its title, is to encourage instruction in agricultural, industrial, trade, commercial and other practical subjects in the elementary and high schools of the state. It provides for the establishment and maintenance of part-time day and evening vocational schools.

Should the measure introduced become a law, it is believed that it will stimulate the various communities of the state to provide practical instruction to these young people through the establishment of day vocational continuation schools.

There are also a great many mature men and women under employment who need certain school training supplementary to their occupations. Their need can be met only through the establishment of evening vocational schools.

The act provides that vocational courses may be conducted in any suitable place provided by local school authorities. This will make it possible for classes to be established in the places wherein pupils are employed, if such places are found to be more convenient and more advantageous than the regular school rooms.

Provision is also made for the employment of vocational guidance experts to assist the young people in choosing suitable occupations. In addition to the aid already received by the local districts under the present law, state aid is provided in an amount not to exceed one-third of the amount expended for instruction in the vocational subjects.

It is hoped that this additional aid will also stimulate local communities to supplement the courses already existing in the public schools by a variety of courses preparing for the various common occupations of the community.

It is provided that any vocational school or class receiving state aid must be approved by the State Board of Education, and local boards of education are required to provide for local boards of inspection, to be composed of an equal number of employees and employers. The duty of this board will be to see that the vocational courses introduced shall be made as practical as possible.

Any community desiring state aid upon account of vocational courses must make a survey of the situation and the need of the local community before it may receive such aid.

The bill provides that all occupations, including household arts and agriculture, shall be considered vocations. This makes the bill broad enough in its scope to provide for the future establishment in any community of such vocational courses as may be deemed necessary to meet the local situation and local need. The State Board of Education is fostering the Strobridge bill.

TROPICO ATTENDS THE BROWN AND CURRY MEETINGS

In co-operation with the Presbyterian church and general societies of Tropico the M. E. church rallied about 400 to the Brown & Curry Tabernacle meeting last Friday evening. A smaller, but a very respectable number, gathered at the First M. E. church Monday night to hear these men, who are conducting a campaign at Third and Maryland, for the cities of Tropico, Glendale and Casa Verdugo.

These men are doing a good work in our midst. All services of the church, except the combination service of S. S. and Worship Sunday, 9:30 a. m., will be suspended this week. Let us all meet at the Tabernacle, 2:30 and 7:30 each day.

TROPICO BOY SCOUTS AT STAR THEATRE MARCH 22

The Tropico Boy Scouts of America will have charge of the Star Theatre Monday, March 22, 1915. There will be five reels of the best pictures in the exchanges shown, among which will be a special Boy Scout picture dealing with Scouts only. There will also be a fine orchestra, which will play the latest and most familiar pieces.

The proceeds will go toward finishing the Scouts' long needed headquarters, so if a Scout comes to you to sell a ticket don't forget that your help will be greatly appreciated by the Scouts and their officials.

Note.—The following men do highly recommend the general public to come to the Star Theatre March 22, 1915. They realize the Scouts will not put on anything that will offend anyone.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MRS. ELIZABETH ANDERSON ARE HELD

Last Friday afternoon funeral services were held for Mrs. Elizabeth Anderson, mother of Misses Anna and Elsie Anderson of Virginia Place, by Dr. R. T. Smith of the Methodist church, of which Mrs. Anderson was a member.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Anderson passed away May 11, 1913, after having been injured by an automobile at Venice, where she and Miss Elsie were visiting Miss Anna, who at that time was staying at Venice, recovering from a long illness. At the time the remains were placed in a vault at Forest Lawn cemetery, to be conveyed to the old home in Cincinnati, where they would be interred in the family lot alongside the husband and other members of the family, as soon as Miss Anna was able to travel.

Instead of weeks, the time grew until almost two years have elapsed and, owing to the fact that the Misses Anderson will make their home in Tropico indefinitely, it was decided that the mother remain here, so hence the delayed burial. At the same time the remains of a nephew were conveyed from Evergreen cemetery and placed alongside the grandmother.

UNION BANQUET TO BE GIVEN BY YOUNG MEN

On Friday evening, March 5, at 6 p. m., a banquet will be given at the Baptist Church in Glendale, by the Baraca and other young men's classes of the Sunday Schools of the Valley, including those of the Presbyterian and Methodist Sunday Schools of Tropico.

This will afford a splendid opportunity for the young men of the community to become better acquainted, and a strong attendance is expected. A hearty invitation is extended to all young men, whether or not they are members of the Sunday School classes.

Building Inspector Fairfield reports the following permits granted since last issue:

H. W. Augustus, 137 W. Tropico avenue, improvements.

Wm. O. Hood, 310 Moore avenue, residence.

F. G. Baker, 415 Gardena, garage.

This brings the total permits issued for February up to $11,860.00, plumbing, $1073.00; electrical, $500.00. For the month of January the total was $2525. March totals will undoubtedly be far in excess to February. This year's total for February is more than February of last year, showing that Tropico building activities are greater than last year.

Under the auspices of the Sons of Veterans, the members of the N. P. Banks Post were most highly entertained last Saturday evening at the G. A. R. Hall, when John Stattem and W. J. Hibbert, with their 200 illustrations depicting the battlefields of Valley Forge and Gettysburg, occupied the center of the stage. These illustrations are the efforts of months of hard work on the part of these gentlemen, and every possible record was examined to make them accurate. During the evening a solo, "The Bugler," was rendered by Mr. Chas. Allen, which was highly appreciated.

Economy Hints

A FEW dimes well spent in stocking up your "spot shelf" will save a good many dollars in the course of a year, for spots unremoved will bring destruction to clothes or pots and pans or furniture, as the case may be. Like attracts like in the world of dust and dirt. Moths swarm to soiled parts of clothing. Rust left unremoved rapidly eats its way through metal. A grease spot on the wall paper attracts dust. Soon it is too late to repair what was at first a trifling damage. If a "spot shelf" is always well stocked there is no excuse for the long delay that is sometimes otherwise unavoidable.

Powdered pumice stone should always be on hand, in a small wooden or tin box or even in a bottle. Many things that are usually kept in boxes can be kept in bottles, which are more durable, cleaner and take up less room. Pumice stone is the best thing for removing spots from marble.

Vinegar should always be accessible, and a small bottle of it on the spot shelf is a good idea. Mix it with silver polish to remove deep seated tarnish from metal. Use it to get glue spots off from wood and furniture.

Borax, of course, is indispensable. A solution of borax is a very good thing for cleaning the wash basins and bathtubs. Soiled neckwear should be soaked in water to which borax has been added. It is also good for cleaning brushes. Ammonia can be used in many cases in place of borax, but it is harder on the hands, usually, than borax.

Salts of lemon is efficacious in removing rust spots. The spots should be moistened and then covered with the salts and exposed to the sunlight.

Gasoline and naphtha are the easiest cleansing agents to use on fabrics of all kinds. But they should never be kept in the house in large quantities, as they are extremely dangerous. It is safer not to keep any amount of them in the house. It is often possible, if you live in the country, to keep a large corked bottle of gasoline in some sheltered place out of doors. If you live in the city the nearest drug store must be relied on to supply your want in small quantities.

Powdered French chalk should be used to remove grease spots from all sorts of surfaces—wall paper, clothes and carpets. It is not always successful in one application, but should be brushed off and replenished until the spot has disappeared.

WOMAN AND HOME.

The level of public entertainment is sinking, and the over-emphasis of sex in the magazines, fiction, plays and even the opera is lamentable. But the solution is in our own hands, and I for one have stopped going to theaters where such plays are produced, and I have discontinued my subscription to two magazines that have taken up the prevailing deplorable fashion of emphasizing the sex question in fiction. Keep these things out and you will go a long way toward changing "heaven is our home" to "our home is heaven." There is woman, for one, to make it so. For self sacrifice, devotion, loyalty, gentleness and subordination of self woman always was and always will be leagues ahead of us men. I recollect that when I was in China a mandarin said to me that the greatest thing that Christ had accomplished was the elevation of woman to her proper sphere.—Andrew Carnegie.

STICKY FEET OF THE FLY.

Why the Germ Laden Pest Constantly Rubs and Brushes Them.

Before the men of science terrified the world with their talk of germs most people thought that the housefly was a harmless creature and very cleanly in his habits, since he seemed to spend a great part of his time in cleaning his legs, but since public opinion has turned against him some explanation has to be found for his apparent cleanliness. Says the Bibliothek der Unterhaltung und des Wissens: "The fact that a fly can walk on a glazed or slippery perpendicular surface has long been a matter of observation. It was at first thought that the fine hairs that cover his legs were so small that they could enter the pores of the smoothest surface and in that way bear the weight of his body. Later it was thought that a sticky fluid was secreted by the feet, which caused them to adhere slightly to the wall. The advent of the microscope has made it possible to observe the precise facts about the fly's unusual powers.

"It is true that the fly's feet secrete a kind of grease, but not in a liquid form. Each leg has from 1,000 to 2,000 minute hairs, and each hair carries a certain amount of this fat. When the fly lights on a smooth surface the whole mass of hairs adheres to it, and each individual hair can be seen under the microscope to leave a distinct grease spot, which has a little circular mark in its center made by the hair itself.

"With such sticky feet it is naturally the case that the fly collects a good deal of dust in the course of his daily perambulations. If he wishes to walk on glass or upside down on the ceiling he must spend a few hours every day keeping his feet clean of this coating of dirt."
